VI. Liaison reports

Alderman, HRC liaison member, and recent Lord Nickens Community Service Award recipient Ben MacShane discussed a number of activities currently going on in the community. The City recently took over sponsorship of a child and adult food assistance program and is working with the Frederick Community Action Agency to make it a success. The City recently created a Childcare Assistance Fund and an Affordable Housing Fund. The City has created a Round Up program in which people can round up to the next dollar when paying their water bills, and funds received will be used to help people who are facing water shut off.

The City is considering a multi-year lease at a nominal amount that would allow the African American Resources, Cultural Heritage Society of Frederick County (AARCH) to use a city-owned space on E. All Saints Street.

The City is also taking steps to change the race, gender and ethnic compositions of its employees and contractors. Greater emphasis is being placed on hiring contractors that better reflect the community in Frederick. Workshops and surveys are being used to promote diversity and inclusion in the city's workforce. $50,000 has been set aside to create a diversity program. This will pay for an investigative study by an outside consultant, and may include a review of the City's recruitment and hiring documents and programs.

VII. Old Business

Reports were given and discussion took place concerning the HRC spring retreat on April 6, the HRC awards dinner on April 24, recent developments at the Frederick County Board of Education on some of the issues the HRC wrote to it about, and the Race and #RealTalk event on April 28, featuring the HALO barbershop quartet, at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation of Frederick (UUCF).

VIII. New Business

The HRC is a co-sponsor of an informational event about human trafficking and the internet that will take place at Frederick High School from 6-8 pm. An FBI agent will speak. Hearty House and the County's Human Trafficking Response Team are some of the other sponsors for this event.

This year's Asbury Church Block Party will take place on Saturday, June 22, 2019 on E. All Saints Street. HRC will have a table at this event.

Frederick Pride will take place on June 29 along Carroll Creek in downtown Frederick. More than 8,000 visitors are anticipated to attend this year.
