Citizens Invited to Share Feedback about Frederick County Government Website

Take a short survey to help improve the website

FREDERICK, MD – Citizens are invited to take a short survey to provide feedback on how to enhance the county website – www.FrederickCountyMD.gov. The goal is to improve the ways citizens find information, conduct business with the county and navigate on desktop and mobile devices.

“The county website is an invaluable public information resource. To make it better, we need to know what works and what needs improvement from those who visit us online,” said Communications Director Vivian Laxton.

The survey results will show why people visit the website, whether the county delivers the information and services citizens expect, and ways to improve the overall experience for citizens.

The survey is available as of today at www.FrederickCountyMD.gov/websitesurvey and will be available until June 14 at 4 p.m.
